To Whom It May Concern:

DSSMITH, a leading company in Europe for the production of corrugated cardboard has chosen H-ON CONSULTING to identify how to improve the safety for their production lines (the corrugators) for all 17 Italian plants. H-ON CONSULTING and DSSMITH set up a collaboration that will link the two companies for the next few years in order to accurately analyze the majority of production line against safety requirements.

The services that H-ON will provide start from a detailed and extended gap analysis on the production line against the applicable safety requirements while performing the risk assessment principle defined in the EN ISO 12100 standard. The definition of these measures implemented elevate the safety level of the production line up to accurate safety standards. Part of HONs commitment is a very detailed technical safety specification descriptive of all the above agreed measures and a final verification with a written test report.

H-ON Consulting has an unconventional and clever way of thinking that is helping our company to solve practical issues in efficient ways. We expect from this collaboration to exceed our expectations in terms of cost savings, safety improvements and speed to accomplish our goals.
